

Clinical Governance Maturity Matrix

The CGMM self-assessment process and checklist

OFFICIAL

The CGMM self-assessment process

The CGMM self-assessment process aligns with the improvement cycle outlined in the VCGF: Plan, Monitor, Learn, Improve (Victorian Government, 2023). This cycle provides leaders with a structured approach to adopt the ideal clinical governance mindset and turn governance principles into action. The CGMM supports a learning mindset. It's not about achieving high scores but about understanding current maturity and identifying meaningful next steps.

Each stage of the CGMM cycle includes suggested steps and examples of how services might approach the work depending on their size, capacity, and existing governance structures. The process should be informed by relevant data and insights, and organisations are encouraged to familiarise themselves with the CGMM workbook before commencing an organisational clinical governance maturity assessment.

CGMM checklist

This checklist is designed to support you to prepare and complete the Clinical Governance Maturity Matrix (CGMM) self-assessment. The checklist should be used alongside the CGMM guidebooks to ensure a clear and coordinated approach to your clinical governance self-assessment.

Clinical Governance maturity self-assessment stage: Plan

1. Establish your test project team and prepare for the clinical governance maturity assessment:

- Form a team to lead and support completion of the CGMM self-assessment
- Determine how the organisation will administer the CGMM self-assessment
- Ensure team members are familiar with, and have access to the CGMM resources
- Confirm each member understands their role and responsibilities in the CGMM self-assessment process
- Establish clear channels for updates, questions, and feedback during the CGMM self-assessment process
